BBE and Snowden jointly launch specialist Ventilation and Energy consulting services in Australia

Snowden and BBE are pleased to announce a Joint Initiative to provide an integrated mine ventilation and energy management centre-of-excellence to serve the Australasian mining sector.

This initiative will deliver to the mining industry a highly specialised team of professionals offering mine ventilation, cooling, energy management and HSE and associated health and safety consulting services.

This collaboration is founded on the complementary services offered by each company and will introduce BBE's specialist range of consulting, training and software services as an additional component to Snowden's existing range of skills. This initiative will also give BBE a well supported physical presence in Australia and allow further business development through the relationship. The team will operate out of Snowden's Perth office.

Both companies have a recognised technical expertise, operational excellence and a proven delivery record and this centre-of-excellence will be extremely effective in providing innovative and state-of-the-art solutions and services.

The agreement will be managed on a non-exclusive basis and does not affect services currently provided independently by either firm.

BBE is the global leader and highly specialised provider of consulting services and innovative technology solutions in ventilation, cooling, energy management and related health and safety practice.

Snowden is a premium provider of consulting services, technology solutions and technical training to the Mining and related sectors.
